CASE STUDY

Jepson & Co simplifies high-volume production.

We've made printing large batches of plates in seconds completely seamless for our high-volume PDI customer, who supply to dozens of franchise dealers.

In a nutshell:

We've simplified printing large volumes of plates with different customer details for our high-volume users such as PDI Centres.

"We'll look after your number plates so you can look after your business".

How they worked previously:

Each plate would be typed in manually and then the correct dealer personalisation and plate size would have to be selected manually for both the front and the rear plate.

How Jepson & Co helped:

We coded in the ability to multi-select dealer personalisations and upload Excel lists of plates to be printed. We also tweaked our plate-making software PlateSync® so when the dealer personalisation was selected for the front plate, it automatically applied to the rear plate.

How has it benefitted our customer?

As with many of our customers, making plates is a necessity rather than a luxury. By simplifying the process, our customers can make plates more quickly and easily, with fewer errors – all saving time and cost.
